Craig Spilker is the current Head of Product + Engagement for AMPT. In this role, Spilker speaks throughout the country about ways HR leaders can motivate and engage their workforce. On top of his speaking engagements, Craig works with AMPT clients and their employees conducting leadership training and development workshops, core value building sessions, engagement and focus group surveys and much more.

Prior to AMPT, Spilker served as COO for Lockr as well as having over 8+ years in executive management positions prior to that. Prior to the professional world, Craig also coached collegiate and international baseball for over 10 years. His time as a coach prepared him for a career in leadership and talent development, and human motivation.

Craig has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology, with a specialization in Social and Organizational Psychology from Doane University.
